(à la suite du cours « Who's Sherlock Holmes ? », voici un exemple de correction des images p68 en utilisant les modaux ou expressions de la probabilité. Pour simplifier, j'ai numéroté les phrases dans l'ordre des images)

- 1 Sherlock Holmes must be a detective.
- 2 He may smoke the pipe. (he probably smokes the pipe)
- 3 He may be a violinist or he may like music
- 4 He must be good at science, he must conduct experiments
- 5 He must be arrogant and very intelligent (= smart= clever = brainy= bright). He can't be humble!
- 6 He must be eccentric
- 7 He can't live in Paris or Madrid !
- 8 He might fight if he has to.
- 9 He must be meticulous (he must pay attention to details)

correction WB p 69 Group A /70 (je remets l'audio sur Ecole Directe pour que tu réécoutes)

A noter dans le cahier

Holmes is very athletic and he moves fast like a hunter following the prey. His grey eyes and fine nose are the features which give his face a determined expression. The great detective is incredibly eccentric, energetic and passionate in the days when he practices his profession. He is extremely intelligent, he is also arrogant. He likes to impress Scotland Yard's inspectors, who envy him a little. Holmes is usually solitary and he has only one friend, Dr Watson, whose loyalty has no limits. His detection method is well known to readers.
